

Divided We Fail Key Findings in Arkansas

Health care costs are skyrocketing and retirement savings are inadequate. The American people have said that these issues are top domestic priorities, and they want answers and action from our elected officials now.¹

AMERICANS NEED AFFORDABLE, QUALITY HEALTH CARE

Too many people in Arkansas are uninsured.

- In 2005, 18 percent of people in Arkansas did not have health insurance.
 - 25 percent of those ages 19-64 were uninsured.
 - 11 percent of children were uninsured.
 - 28 percent of African Americans and 35 percent of Hispanics under age 65 were uninsured compared to percent 18 percent of Whites.²

Health care costs too much.

- Between 1991 and 2004, personal health care expenditures in Arkansas grew an average of 6.9 percent per year.³
- The average total single premium rose from $2,389 in 1998 to $3,127 in 2003 for employees enrolled at private firms in Arkansas that offered health coverage. This was an increase of 31 percent in inflation-adjusted dollars.⁴
- The average employee contribution for health insurance in Arkansas rose from $495 per year in 1998 to $644 per year in 2003.⁵
- Over the last seven years, the average national manufacturers' price of 153 common drugs increased almost 54 percent, more than 2½ times the rate of inflation.⁶

People in Arkansas are concerned about health care costs.

- 71 percent of Arkansas AARP members in 2006 considered guaranteeing affordable health care coverage for all a very important issue in their decision about which U.S. Congressional/Senate candidates to vote for in upcoming elections. Another 20 percent considered this somewhat important.⁷
- In 2005, more than half (52%) of AARP Arkansas members who purchased prescription drugs in the previous year experienced a major or minor problem paying for those prescriptions.⁸
- In 2005, more than seven out of ten (73%) AARP Arkansas members said they were at least somewhat concerned about their ability to pay for prescription drugs over the next two years.⁹

Americans overall are concerned about health care costs.

- In 2006, 80 percent of Americans were dissatisfied with the total cost of health care in this country, including 58 percent who were very dissatisfied.¹⁰
- In 2006, 68 percent of Americans believed that providing health care for all Americans was more important than holding down taxes.¹¹

AMERICANS NEED LIFETIME FINANCIAL SECURITY

Social Security is vital to the well-being of people in Arkansas.

- In 2003, nearly one out of five Arkansas residents (20%) received Social Security.
 - Nearly three out of five (57%) beneficiaries were retirees.
 - More than two out of five (43%) beneficiaries were widows or widowers, workers with disabilities, wives or husbands of workers, or children.¹²
- In 2000, Social Security constituted at least 50% of the total income of more than one-half of Arkansas residents age 65+ (56%).¹³
- In 2000, more than one out of four people (27%) in Arkansas age 65 or older relied on Social Security as their only source of income.¹⁴
- On average, nearly three out of five (58%) Arkansas residents age 65 or older would have lived below the poverty line in 2000 through 2002 if they had not received Social Security.¹⁵

People in Arkansas are concerned about having a secure retirement.

- In 2005, 26 percent of Arkansas adults believed that Social Security's problems were serious and could be fixed only with substantial changes to the current system.¹⁶
- 62 percent of AARP members in Arkansas strongly or somewhat support requiring of employers to provide workers with automatic payroll deductions so that they can open personal IRAs.¹⁷

Americans overall are concerned about having a secure retirement.

- 68 percent of American workers say they are not too or not at all confident that Social Security will continue to provide benefits of at least equal value to the benefits retirees receive today.¹⁸
- 48 percent of Americans say they are not too or not at all confident that they will have enough money to live comfortably throughout their retirement years.¹⁹
- 78 percent of Americans say they strongly or somewhat favor automatic enrollment in 401(k)s and having employers set up employee contributions through payroll deduction unless the employee chooses not to participate.²⁰
- 79 percent of Americans agree that employers who do not offer some type of retirement plan should be required to offer workers the option of regularly saving a part of their paycheck in a personal individual retirement account or IRA, even if the employer does not contribute to that account.²¹

Americans have not saved enough to retire.

- Only 25 percent of American workers are very confident of achieving a comfortable lifestyle in retirement.²²
- Only one out of four (25%) baby boomers say they are very prepared for retirement.²³
- Just 43 percent of workers have actually tried to figure out how much money they will need to save in order to live comfortably in retirement.²⁴
